Good mileage at steep prices

Two decades to purchase a classic

PLEASANTON — Jim Johnson worked hard for 23 years to enter his 1930 Austin in a Concours d'Elegance and he finally will realize that dream July 18 in Lafayette.

The Pleasanton resident needed 18 of those years just to get the car's original owner to part with it, up in Johnson's home town, Coos Bay, Ore.

"I was 11 years old when I first saw that car and I knew then that I wanted to enter it in a Concours," said Johnson. (A Concours is a display and competition for beautifully restored autos which date from the turn of the century to shortly after World War II. The idea is to make them look like they just rolled off the production line.)

Johnson was after that owner all the time in Coos Bay, trying to get him to sell the car. Even when he went away to college, he would spend his vacations exercising his persuasive skills on the man.

Finally in 1971, the owner decided to sell to Johnson, who then was living in Boise, Ida. "He decided he would never get his three Model A's restored if he didn't sell the Austin," said Johnson.

He started his restoration project July 4, 1971 and finished it July 4 of this year, some $6,000 and 4,000 work hours later. If he were to sell it, he could get $15,000 for the car because it is so rare.

"There are an estimated 200 Austins left in America," said Johnson, He said the car, which is 10 feet long, is shorter and lower than a Volkswagen bug and was touted as America's first compact car, a full generation ahead of its time.

The nostalgic reprints of Austin advertisements from 1930 in Johnson's collection show how enthusiastic the firm was in promoting its little gas - saver. The two - seater coupe could squeeze 40 miles per gallon from its eight horsepower, four cylinder engine. The ads plugged an alleged cost of three - quarters of a cent per mile operating costs for gas and oil compared to 2.5 cents per mile for the big cars.

The ads worked. There were 180,000 firm orders for the car after its debut. But the folks at American Austin hadn't done their planning properly. They could produce only 8,558 cars in the first year and people turned elsewhere for their transporation. By comparison, Ford sold 4 million Model A's from 1930 to 1934 while Austin was selling 20,000 cars in the same period. The company went bankrupt.

But American Austin made its small contribution to the passing scene of Americana, judging by the mementos in Johnson's scrapbook. There were jokes and cartoons about its relatively tiny size, with one person telling her husband to bring the car in the house so she could wash it with the dishes. Humor was more innocent in 1930.

The nostalgia is part of what makes the American Austin Bantam Car Club go, said Johnson. There are only 200 surviving cars, but many more members without cars, people who are in it just for their own personal tribute to what they feel is the neatest car ever to roll down an American turnpike.

Many of the people who will turn out at the Concours at Stanley School in Lafayette July 18 will be there for the nostalgic feeling all that polished paint and metal evokes, said Johnson. If he's lucky, he'll meet another Austin owner there, though as far as he knows, there are only two other collectors in the entire Bay Area.

But if he does run into some fellow Austin enthusiasts, there may be talk of looking up the individuals who still have the original dies for the Austin, scattered now around America, and maybe putting a few in production.

"Oh, when Austin collectors get together, there's talk about producing it again from the dies," said Johnson. "But it's just talk."

Newlin reflects on school funds, programs, plans

Predicting what the state may do and how teachers will respond to tenets of participative management add to the challenge encountered daily by Dr. Bruce C. Newlin, superintendent of Amador and Pleasanton schools.

In a wide - ranging state - of - the - schools discussion Thursday, Newlin said he felt "some real inroads had been made during the past year" in nurturing the rapport between himself and members of the certificated and classified staffs.

"I wouldn't say we agree on all subjects and in all situations. It would be surprising if we did. I think it's probably good that we don't have total agreement on everything."

Having just finished the first of a three - year contract, the former Lancaster superintendent believes the concept of participative management has not been fully worked out at the individual school level. The concept, first instituted by former superintendent Rudy Gatti, places more of the management and decision - making responsibility at the building level.

"The district - level model is pretty well developed," Newlin stated, "but we're looking to establish it more at the individual school level."

Towards this goal, principals and their respective staffs developed budgets based on needs during the past year.

Asked to characterize the relationship of the board, legal counsel Keith Breon and himself, Newlin said "I think we have a good flow of information. I have real respect for Keith and I believe he and the board work well together." Breon, who performs the same function for the Murray district and several others in the Bay Area, had his contract with Amador - Pleasanton renewed for another year in March. He will receive $1,000 a month on a retainer basis, providing eight hours service a week cumulative up to 96 hours a quarter.

Reflecting back on participative management structure established in the past 12 months, Newlin noted the increasing responsibilities of the principals, citing Harvest Park principal Dale Hudson's responsibility for a $1 million - plus budget for that school alone.

On the impact of the passage of SB 1641 last week, Newlin said the high school district would possibly reap $175,000 and the elementary district $180,000. "I would guess there will have to be a piece of trailer legislation to clear up the loopholes in 1641," Newlin cautioned. The legislature made some significant changes, via this bill, in the way the inflation factor of SB90 will now work.

"The number of defeated school tax measures statewide really put pressure on the legislature to do something for schools," Newlin opined.

As far as another revenue limit increase measure, Newlin totally discounted the chances of one for the November ballot ("There'll be so many issues to sort out— ), but felt it was a possibility for next March. "We'll have to put together a study budget at the beginning of next year and try'n predict what the state will do."

Newlin felt the districts have been able to "maintain the integrity of the educational program over the years, despite budget cuts."

Asked what he felt were the strongest subject areas in each of the districts, Newlin said language arts and mathematics, in context of the Graduation Task Force, have made the most progress, along with career education and health education

"Some of the other subject areas will be dealt with through the Graduation Task Force in the coming year."

On whether any particular areas or schools have not received equitable treatment, Newlin said "We've attempted to build equity into our program. As reflected in the participative management guide, it wasn't who yelled the loudest but where the need was. For example, it will take us more than four years to fully implement programs and facilities at Foothill High School. If there's an inequity anywhere, it's probably at Foothill."

Finally, on the question on an overcrossing of Highway 680, Newlin said he was very concerned from a safety standpoint. "Knowing that some students still cut across or under the freeway really bothers me," Newlin said. The Amador board went on record more than a year ago as supporting a Las Positas overpass.

Pleasanton losing GM to Fremont

A decision by General Motors Corp to locate a $3 million "area corporate headquarters building" in Fremont may mean that Pleasanton has lost its bid to land that same industrial plum.

GM announced this week that it will acquire a four - acre site on Paseo Padre Parkway in Fremont for an administrative center that will house "about 200 persons." The site is close to a BART station and adjacent to the new South County Hall of Justice.

"That sounds very much like the building we were trying to land," explained Bill Marsh, a Pleasanton resident and owner of a vacant parcel on Sunol Boulevard, across from the Kaiser Aluminum Center and close by I - 680. Marsh has been working with GM representatives and members of the Pleasanton New Industries Committee "for over a year" to sell GM on the local site.

"I guess they just decided Fremont was better for them," Marsh concluded.

Muirwood speeding typical says expert

PLEASANTON — Residents on Muirwood Drive may have been shocked by the high speeds down their street as discovered in a recent speed survey, but "breaking" the speed limit is fairly common, according to City Traffic Engineer Ken Lamb.

The posted limit on Muirwood Drive is 25 miles per hour, but the average speed in the survey was 31 mph and the median speed was 29 mph. The median means half the speeds were above it and half below it. But the real corker was the "critical speed". This is the speed below which 85 per cent of the drivers travel and the wisdom of the traffic engineering profession says that it is the "natural speed limit", set by the vast majority of motorists. In the case of Muirwood Dgive, it was 35 mph.

Some people may object to saying that the natural speed limit should be the 85th percentile of all motorists surveyed in a speed study, but Lamb points to some convincing arguments.

For one thing, the river seems to flow that way. For example, take the 55 mph speed limit around the nation. Not many people drive that slow any more. The 85 percentile now is probably around 65 mph or a little under, said Lamb.

The 55 mph limit went over big when it was first instituted because people were motivated to follow it, said Lamb. "After waiting in line for two hours for gas, they were concerned about driving slower and saving gas so they didn't have to come back to the long line quite so fast," said Lamb. But now people are willing to drive faster, use more gas and pay higher prices for it, he said.

There also is the problem of selective enforcement. Some courts have ruled that police can't single out motorists vioalating the 55 mph limit. And since so many are violating it now, that would make it tough to crack down, said Lamb.

Enforcement of a strict limit has other problems in California, Lamb noted. The state code defines the basic speed law in terms which leave large discretion to the driver: he or she must regard the weather, driving conditions and use a speed which does not endanger life or property.

Some traffic analysts feel that the "critical speed" meets those conditions. Eighty - five percent of the drivers is a good voting majority who have decided "safe" just what is on a given stretch of road at a given time, said Lamb.

He feels it's an interesting view and noted that one's feelings about it depend on whether one is a driver, pedestrian or bicyclist. To someone standing on the curb, cars at the critical speed seem to be going very fast, he said. It all boils down to a balance between the needs of the motorist, pedestrian and cyclist, he said.

Lamb had no specific comments on Muirwood Drive, though eventually he will have a report for the city council because more than 400 residents asked for traffic controls on the street.

Lamb will be looking at the situation with the thought that traffic controls should be applied only where needed. If the city were to install a superfluous stop sign, the opposite result could occur.

In Hayward the city installed a stop sign on a busy street feeding into a major shopping center. Motorists stopped all right, but peeled out in contempt of an illogically placed sign. That's part of the balance one has to consider in traffic engineering, said Lamb.

County reports strike costing $4,750 a day

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — The 38-day-old county employes strike has cost $180,500, according to figures released yesterday by county administrator Loren Enoch.

"The trend of the strike costs is an actual loss to the county" of $4,750 per day, said Enoch, adding "actual costs of the strike cannot be fully determined until several months after the strike."

The county saves $69,100 per day in strikers' salaries, but loses $26,500 in overtime costs and another estimated $32,600 in revenue losses.

Another $7,900 per day is estimated lost in "backlog costs," $6,600 each day for "services and supplies," and $250 per day in damages to county property.

Union leaders dispute the calcluations, claiming the county has saved enough money in the strike to pay for some of their demands.

The daily losses "could increase," Enoch said, "because of the cumulative effect of the backlog of welfare and medical maintenance."

The State will not excuse cost overruns — and hence cover their costs — because of the strike, he said.

Most of the cost analysis is based on "actual figures" taken from verifiable county records. Revenue losses are "conservative estimates," he added, noting his office pegs hospital losses at $825,000 while the striking Service Employes International Union claims the county has lost $1.4 million.

Supervisors at first were reluctant to prepare the figures, claiming the true costs would not be known for several months after the strike is settled.

Champion beef on hoof

Carl Bruns of Pleasanton Future Farmers of America received a coveted blue ribbon in the FFA, champion beef division for this prize specimen. Carl and other FFA and 4-H livestock exhibitors will have their prize animals auctioned at annual livestock auction Sunday at Fairgrounds livestock area in Pleasanton. Auction begins with swine at 9:30 a.m. and continues after barbecue at 11:30 a.m. Beef and sheep will be auctioned starting at 1 p.m.

Youth slugged, robbed at fairgrounds parking lot

PLEASANTON — A 16-year-old youth watching a passing train was slugged twice and robbed by two men in the parking lot in front of the main entrance to the county fairgrounds Wednesday.

Timothy Milliken of Livermore reported to police he was leaving the fair and watching a passing train just before midnight Wednesday when two men approached. One of the men hit Milliken twice in the face and knocked him to the ground, where both men reached into his pockets and took $2. They missed finding the youth's wallet, police said.

The men then ran to a car and sped off. Police are attempting to trace the vehicle and have a good description of the two suspects.

San Ramon construction site burglarized

SAN RAMON — Burglars entered a construction site at Davona and Crestview Drives and took more than $1,500 in goods, sheriff's deputies reported.

The site, owned by the Thomas Construction Co., was entered by unknown means. Stolen items included 147 sheets of plywood valued at $1,533.

There are no suspects.

Livermore home burglarized of $850 in jewelry

LIVERMORE — Burglars entered a Bluebell Drive home recently and took $850 worth of jewelry, police reported yesterday.

Luella Marks Hunt told police that she and her husband returned to the home after lunch and discovered the theft. There were no signs of forced entry.

Missing items include a pair of earrings with two 40-point diamonds valued at $700, a gold ring with six diamonds worth $100, and a gold ring with green stones valued at $50.

Police have no suspects at this time.

"Laughing gas" tank taken from Valley Memorial

LIVERMORE — A 2000-gallon tank of compressed nitrous oxide, commonly referred to as "laughing gas," was discovered missing from a storage room at Valley Memorial Hospital Tuesday.

Chief engineer Edward Colonna told police the five foot tall cylinder was discovered missing after a routine inventory was taken. The tank, which is marked "VMH," was taken from a rear storage area of the hospital.

Police said the contents are commonly pumped into balloons and sold as an intoxicant. They added that such inhalation of the gas is potentially harmful and possibly fatal.

Police have no suspects in the case.

Dewey Hudson told police that two light brown tackle boxes, poles, reels and other gear taken in the theft. Police have no clues.

LIVERMORE — A citizens band radio and 8-track tape deck were taken from Barbara Ann Erdman's truck while it was parked near her Hemlock Court home.

Police said burglars pried open the truck's left wing window and took a Cobra brand CB radio worth $200 and an Automatic Radio 8-track tape deck worth $100.

Police have no clues in the case.

Union asks 6 per cent to end strike

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Union leaders late yesterday telegramed their latest offer in the 38-day-old county employes strike to the board of supervisors while intensifying their heated campaign against board chairman Fred Cooper.

The union proposal, an apparent answer to informal Wednesday night talks between Cooper and union negotiators, calls for a 6 per cent wage and fringe benefits settlement. Striking Service Employes International Union leaders had been demanding a 7.6 per cent hike they claimed would match a raise granted management this year.

Before receiving the telegram, Cooper said he had a verbal, 4-per-cent-now, 2-per-cent-later offer from union negotiator John Bowers, but that the board would not react to the offer until it was put in writing.

Union spokesmen said yesterday afternoon that their 6 per cent offer was not the same as the "4 and 2" they claim averages out to 5 per cent.

The "4 and 2" proposal would cost "something over $2 million," said Cooper, while the original 7.6 per cent demand was pegged at $2.6 million.

"We have had trouble knowing where they (the union negotiators) are in their offers," he said.

Wednesday's meeting centered around talks on the "language" of any future memorandum of understanding between the county and union employes.

"The talks will continue with regard to the language," said Cooper, "but it's impossible to talk about the money until the union knows what it's offering."

The "language," he said, concerned fringe benefits, holidays and the controversial scheduling at hospitals and welfare caseloads.

County administrator Loren Enoch, who earlier said the county has lost $4,750 each day of the strike, is authorized to hire 100 "interim" employes to cover shorthanded departments.

But north county supervisor Tom Bates moved to direct Enoch not to hire the interims, claiming they'll be used to replace the strikers.

"People will be hired then transferred to other positions," he said. "That's clearly union breaking."

The "interims" already are on the county payroll and are used to offset seasonal "surges," Cooper said, like the twice a year need for extra personnel to process the property tax roll.

The motion died on a 2-2 tie with Cooper abstaining, but adding he would "discuss the matter with Mr. Enoch" later.

He reportedly argued later that the defeat of the motion prohibiting the hiring did not necessarily stop Enoch from exercising his authority and hiring the personnel.

Cooper, a Democrat, runs his campaign on a strong, pro-labor base. He has said he believes in public employes' right to strike, but that the present imbroglio a simple matter of money demands by the union.

He has been singled out by them as the biggest obstacle to settlement of the dispute, and has become the brunt of a heated, personal campaign.

Pickets have been tailing the Alameda representative around county buildings, following him to lunch in Jack London square.

Pickets marched in front of his home yesterday, and a union spokeswoman said they planned a "surprise" for him there last night.

Public demonstrations in downtown Oakland, as well as a self-styled "caravan to Cooperland" — a trip through the supervisor's East Oakland and Alameda district — also have been planned.

Cooper said the picketing "doesn't bother me, but it has upset some of my neighbors."

Kiddie book contest is underway

PLEASANTON — The second annual Newcott - Caldberry contest for children's writing will be held at the library and co - sponsored by Sage Books.

Edith Stock of Sage Books has donated "a generous sum" to be used for prizes in the contest, said Elizabeth Overmyer, children's librarian.

The contest is under way and will end July 19. Young authors are invited to write a story, illustrate it if desired, and turn it in at the library on or before July 19.

Prizes including awards for best writing and best pictures, will be awarded in a special ceremony in August. All entries with the author's permission, will remain in the library to become part of a local authors collection in the children's area of the library.

Horsemen to lose $600,000 as fair ends?

The Alameda County Fair will complete its two-week run without a bang or whimper ... and without horse racing.

That's how much they stand to lose, total, if racing is not conducted Saturday. Racing for today was cancelled, marking the eleventh day the Fair has operated without horse racing.

And there is little chance that horsemen will be able to recoup the lost dates and purses. By law, racing dates cannot be assigned to Fairgrounds without their being a Fair scheduled concurrently.

There is a possibility that horsemen could petition the California Horse Racing Board to pickup the Pleasanton dates and place them at Golden Gate Fields, Bay Meadows or a Southern California track later this year.

Exhibitor hours will remain the same, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., for the remainder of the Fair.

Today is Dublin Day and Western Fairs Day. The Dublin Community Hour is scheduled for 2 p.m. in the Court of 4 Seasons.

Final competition in the Fair's junior talent contest begins at 5. Winners of the individual community talent shows will be vying for prizes to be awarded by the County Fair Association and Alameda County Cowbelles.

Wednesday's Kids' Day and Pleasanton Day drew 14,882, a big increase over crowds of Monday and Tuesday but barely 50 per cent of last year's corresponding day total, 27,378.

The Mugglestons, a family musical review, headline Saturday and Sunday in the Amphitheatre with free shows at 7 and 9 p.m.

Kaiser plans new quarrying following county board OK

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Kaiser Sand and Gravel Co. will begin excavation of some 100 acres of quarry land two years before completion of required reclamation plans under a permit unanimously granted yesterday by the county board of supervisors.

Under terms of a gravel permit issued earlier, the firm had to produce an acceptable plan for reclaiming its quarry pits north of Stanley Boulevard before any excavation could begin.

Yesterday's application, which breezed through the board unopposed, will allow Kaiser to excavate for two years while the plan is prepared.

The land still will be subject to conditions drawn up in the impending plan, however, said board of supervisors chairman Fred Cooper.

Officials spur prayer meal

Assemblyman Floyd Mori, Mayor Bob Philcox of Pleasanton, Ron Hyde, president of the V.C.S.D. Board will join representatives of churches and organizations in the Exchange Club's first valley-wide Prayer Breakfast, Saturday morning at Howard Johnson's in Dublin.

The city councils and mayors of Livermore and Pleasanton and the Valley Community Services District have all proclaimed the week of July 4-10 as "One Nation Under God Week" in conjunction with the Exchange Club of Amador-Livermore Valley. The theme celebrates our nation's bicentennial and is the annual thrust of the national Exhange Club's emphasis of the principles under which the United States was founded.

The breakfast will serve to recognize community leaders and will conclude and highlight the week.

Breakfast, which will be served from 8 to 9 a.m., will feature a non-sectarian program with Colonel Heath Bottomly as guest speaker.

Col. Bottomly is a retired Air Force Fighter Pilot and Command Officer, presently an associate staff member of the Military Ministry of Campus Crusade for Christ. He is a noted speaker and a recent film entitled "The Conversion of Col. Bottomly" documents his career.

Tickets for the breakfast cost $2.50 each and are available at various business places in the valley, including the Christian Booktique in Dublin and the Good Book Store in Livermore. Exchange President Lee Basnar urges husbands and wives to attend the breakfast together.

Skate-A-Thon tonight

DUBLIN — More than 200 youths are expected to participate in the Skate-A-Thon for the Muscular Dystrophy Association being held tonight at the Rollarena Skating Center on Amador Valley Boulevard.

The event will start at 8 tonight and run until 7 a.m. Saturday morning and the skaters have received pledges for every hour they make it around the rink.

According to Rollarena manager professional Russ Camacho, the Dublin rink last year donated $4,000 for Muscular Dystrophy through the Skate-A-Thon.

Camacho added the Roller Skate Rink Operators' Association of America last year contributed a total of (RSROA) $1.5 million through Skate-A-Thons to the fund.

Mothers of Twins

Rory Rebmann, judo instructor for the YMCA in the valley, will address members of the Twin Valley Mothers of Twins Club Monday, July 12. The club convenes at the Kaiser Research Center, lower level cafeteria, in Pleasanton at 8 p.m.

Rebmann has taught judo for the "Y for three years, and is one of the few fifth degree black belt instructors in the Bay Area. A resident of Livermore, he teaches women's self defense and will demonstrate some of these skills at the meeting.

The club gathers tonight for an evening of miniature golf at Golfland Arcade in Milpitas.

Sherrie Howell has been selected as the club delegate for the national convention of Mothers of Twins Clubs to be held July 27 through 31 in Tuscon, Ariz. The local chapter is a member of the Northern California Association of Mothers of Twins Clubs, and of the national organization.

Membership is open to all mothers of twin or multiple birth children. For information contact Mary Birmingham at 846-3734.

AARP

The Bicentennial observance for members of the American Association of Retired Persons and their spouses will be a noon barbecue July 17 at the home of Joseph and Jane Picardi, 1650 London Way, Livermore.

Members will bring salad, casserole or dessert and their own table service. The AARP will provide entree and beverage.

Transportation from the Livermore Recreation Center may be provided if necessary at 11:30 a.m. Call 447-8396 or 447-3407 before the date of the picnic.

Exchange prayer breakfast

The city councils of Pleasanton and Livermore, as well as the Valley Community Services District of Dublin-San Ramon have proclaimed the week of July 4-10 as "One Nation Under God Week" in conjunction with the Exchange Club's first valley prayer breakfast slated Saturday, July 10.

The breakfast will be served at the Joward Johnson Motor Lodge in Dublin from 8 a.m., sponsored by the Exchange Club and other service clubs and churches to honor valley leadership.

A special non-sectarian program will be presented by Colonel Heath Bottomly, a retired Air Force pilot and associate staff member of the Military Ministry of Crusade for Christ.

Tickets for the breakfast at $2.50 per person are available at valley businesses, including the Christian Booktique in Dublin and the Good Book Store in Livermore. Special guests at the event will be Congressman Floyd Mori, Mayor Bob Philcox of Pleasanton, Steve Stevens of the Dublin Rotary Club, and Ron Hyde, president of the V.C.S.D. board.

Livermore Newcomers

New residents of the Livermore area are invited to enjoy an afternoon with the Livermore Newcomers as they cheer the Oakland A's to victory over the Kansas City Royals Saturday, July 24 at the Coliseum.

Guests and their children will be seated on the second deck with a good view, while boys and girls to age 14 years will receive a free Oakland A's jacket.

After the game, a no-host pizza party is planned at the Round Table in Livermore, with a 10 per cent discount on all orders and surprises for the children.

For reservations or information contact Sue Richards at 443-3756 or Kathy Kozman at 455-1070. Tickets are $4 per person and reservation deadline is today. Carpooling may be arranged.

Kamp's new store opens

Kamp's Furniture has been a household word in Livermore since 1904 at 61 North L St. Now a magnificent new building houses a complete line of furniture and carpeting at 2695 First St. Boasting an overall square footage of 10,000 square feet, with a display space of more than 8,500 square feet, the modern structure represents an investment of more than $1.5 million, including the inventory of all the leading brand names in the business. Harold Kamp and his son Russ maintain an air of courtesy and service to their customers, while Fran Kamp does the honors as office manager. A touch of class has been added to the image of Livermore with this store and its friendly folks who effer their experience and know-how, to make Livermore's homes become more beautiful.

Jim Davidson

Davidson improves services

Meet Jim Davidson, sales promotion manager for Big O Tires, which boasts 23 outlets for its line of auto parts and general auto service including tune-ups.

A former advertising man with the Oakland Tribune, Daily Review Publishing Co. and others, Davidson came to Big O seven years ago and has used his many talents as an artist, idea man, designer and others. A former assistant to the auto editor at the Tribune, he utilized that talent to promote interest in auto care and maintenance.

The affable Davidson is an accomplished country music singer and vocalizes as a hobby. His wife Carolyn is office manager of the San Francisco branch of the Kelly Girls.

Safeway's new manager

Robert Nethery, new manager of Safeway's Pleasanton store in the Amador shopping center on Santa Rita Road, displays one of several new innovations that will be popping up at the food store. The "Know Your Food" display includes helpful hints on shopping, consumer fact sheets, and special recipes designed to please. Also coming in the near future will be a large selection of speciality items including gourmet foods, a new display of Hooper's famous candy, and store remodeling to expand liquor, wine, and frozen food departments. After 23 years with Safeway in the East Bay including 10 years at the Moraga store, Nethery came to Pleasanton in March and says he fully enjoys his new customers. A member of the Pleasanton Rotary Club, Nethery resides in the Bay Area with his wife Jackie, son John and daughter Kimberly.

People in business

DUBLIN — Robert L. Witt, corporate secretary of Hexcel since 1969, has been named vice president of the Dublin - based firm, an international manufacturer and marketer of engineered materials.

A 1968 graduate of San Francisco Law School, Witt held positions with Kaiser Aerospace and Electronics and Litton Industries before joining Hexcel as contract manager.

Witt is a member of the California and America Bar Associations, the Practicing Law Institute and the American Society of Corporate Secretaries.

He resides with his family in Pleasanton.

PLEASANTON — Nine researchers at Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corporation's Center for Technology have been recognized by their company for publishing technical articles.

The program, initiated by Kaiser Aluminum in 1968 to encourage publication of technical and professional information, recognizes individuals in the corporation's aluminum division whose articles are published in techincal or trade journals. Savings bonds are awarded to each author.

An example of one of the most recent articles is Jerry Kissin's discussion of the wear - resistance of BART's third rail, which uses metal supplied by Kaiser Aluminum. Kissin is a resident of Danville.

Other local authors include Paul Anderson of Pleasanton, Al Bushey of Danville, and Ralph Dorward and Neal Person of Livermore. Bernie Baker of Pleasaton and Joe Balser of Livermore co-authored one article, and joined with Bob Pearson of Pleasanton and Wynn Strahl of San Ramon on another.

LIVERMORE — Sandia Laboratories has announced the promotion of Dr. William E. Alzheimer to manager of Applied Mechanics Department effective July 1.

Alzheimer joined Sandia in Albuquerque, N.M. in 1966 as a staff member in the engineering dynamics division. He was promoted to supervisor in 1970, and has been supervisor of Advanced Development Division since 1974.

His new responsibilities include analytical and experimental support in the area of applied mechanics.

He and his wife Becky have two children.

PLEASANTON — Richard L. Martin, a resident of Pleasanton, has been promoted to vice president in Bank of America's Oakland East/North Bay Regional Administration office.

Martin joined BofA in 1958 and was named manager of the Pleasanton office in 1970. He was advanced to assistant vice president and head of Timeplan operations at the Oakland iIndustrial office in 1972.

He and his wife, Helen, are the parents of four children.

PLEASANTON — Sharon Kay Ewell of Rockingham Drive in Pleasanton, an insurance representative with Combined Insurance Company of America, has received an award for outstanding sales and service to the public.

Ewell won the Pearl Award in the W. Clement Stone International Sales and Management Achievement Club, named after the company's founder and board chairman.

She became associated with Combined as a representative and her work in service to policyholders earned her the award.

Last gasp for races

Horse Racing at the Alameda County Fair was cancelled for the eleventh straight day today by secretary - manager Lee Hall.

It was the 41st day of racing in Northern California to be called off because of labor difficulties. Golden Gate Fields lost 30 days this spring due to janitorial strikes while the Pleasanton meeting has been plagued by a strike by Alameda County workers.

However, racing secretary Charles Dougherty carded an excellent closing day program for tomorrow, hopeful that the strike would be settled and the fair could get in a day of racing.

Two horse were named to start in the 12th running of the $25,000 added Alamedan Handicap at a mile and one-sixteenth. If they go the field will be headed by top weight Narrow Way, who'll tote 119 pounds against Lino, Space Away, Prince Petrone, Mister Jacket, First Ticket, J. Sir Rah, Happy Delegate and Port of the Sea.

Serving as a companion feature will be the filly and colt divisions of the $10,000 - added Alameda County Futurity at five and one-half furlongs.

Posey tops San Ramon field

Kurt Posey has to like San Ramon National Golf Club's back nine.

The San Francisco golfer, seeking his second straight tournament win, carded a two-under par 70 yesterday and carries a one-stroke lead into today's final round of the Peluso Jr. golf tournament at the San Ramon course.

Posey, entered in the 16-17 year old flight, walked off with the first round lead after dropping birdies on both the 13th and 15th holes.

He holds a one stroke advantage over Milpitas' Craig Stewart and a two-stroke lead over three others.

Vince Baxter, Bill Corbett and James Hay are all locked in third place with 72's, while former Monte Vista High golfer Tom Straeter is tied with four players at 73.

Other local golfers included Dave Edwards, Carl Richardson, and Craig Matttoch with 84's and Dave Olson, a stroke back at 85.

Posey teed off at 6:30 a.m. today with three other top qualifiers and barring unusual misfortune will be among the final 20 top players vying for the overall championship championship in an extra 18-hole loop beginning at 11:30.

Tony Hazarian leads the 14-15 age flight with a 73, while Rick Brown trails by a stroke. Najarion is two strokes off the pace, while Chris Mulls, Jim McCarthy, Scott Short, and Burt Buehler carded 77's.

Brook Thomas, with an 87, holds a two-stroke lead over Karen Whiten in the Girls' 15-17 flight.

Robert Meyers fired a fine 79 to lead the 12-13 age competition, while Scott McCarron shot a 46 over nine holes to lead the 11 & under golfers.

Posey, winner of the Salinas Championships last week, owns first place titles in the Fresno City Championship, the East Bay Junior Tournament, and the Whitney Ranch and Kings City Invitationals.

Going from broke...

Pleasanton's Don Hall soars over San Ramon's Craig Cline for a left-hand lay-up in summer basketball at Amador Valley High School. Both teams are sponsored by Allied Brokers which bailed out four teams needing new uniforms after new North Coast Section regulations were passed this season at a cost of $600.

Dublin wins bracket; Phils lose nightcap

MISSION SAN JOSE — Jim Ford's one-hitter in the first game went for naught as Pleasanton National's phillies dropped a 6-3 decision to Centerville National's Tigers in the deciding game of the District 57 Upper Bracket Senior Little League TOC action yesterday at Olivos Field.

Dublin, meanwhile, moved into the finals and needs just one win to capture the District 57 championship. (See story at left of page).) They will face the Tigers tomorrow at Olivos Field in Mission San Jose at 1:00. The Tigers must win two in arow over Dublin since they lost to Pleasanton yesterday.

The Phillies won the opener, 3-2, in nine innings. Ford fanned an incredible 18 batters, while allowing just one hit.

Robin Dijos drove in all three of Pleasanton's runs, including the deciding two-RBI single in the top of the ninth inning to ice the win. But the Phillies, needing two wins to advance to the finals, just ran out of gas in the nightcap.

"The kids were tired, and just made some mental mistakes," coach Art Konecny said. Konecny and manager John Smith had rummaged through six games previous to yesterday's nightcap, while the Tigers drew an opening - round bye and only played two contests prior to yesterday's tilts.

Pleasanton lost to the Tigers last in their only previous loss 12-5. In that game, Centerville hurler Ken Beecham was the winner. The Phils got sweet revenge yesterday, though, smacking 10 hits off of the tall pitcher in handing him the first game defeat.

Pleasanton took leads of 1-0 and 3-2 in the second game yesterday but failed to put away the win. The Tigers scored three times in the fifth to take a 5-3 and never looked back.

Mike Dixon went the distance for Centerville in picking uo the win. Mike Bowling and starter Dave Konecny hurled for the losers, Konecny picking up the loss.

In the first game, Ford pitched a near- -perfect game. Had it not been for some key miscues by his teammates, the fireballing lefthander might have come away with a no-nitter. The only hit Ford did surrender was a tiny dribbler in the sixth inning off the bat of Ken Beecham, who barely beat out the throw to first to scratch the no-hitter.

Centerville scored both of their runs out of Pleasanton's benevolence. Trailing 1-J in the bottom of the sixth inning, Beecham tapped his infield hit with two out. After stealing second base, Ford faced power - hitter Rob Costa, who had fanned his previous two trips to the plate.

Costa lofted an extremely high pop-up near the foul-line at first base. Mitch Pereira evidently lost it in the sun, the ball dropping just fair, and Beecham scoring on the play. The play was typical of the bad luck the Phillies experienced all through the first game.

In the Pleasanton two-run explosion in the ninth inning, Ed Nakagawa started things with a solid single to left. A passed ball sent him to second, where he stayed while Ford popped out and Jerry Lipich fanned.

Pereira drew a walk, followed by Mike Getty's sharp single up the middle. The ball was hit too hard to score Nakagawa, though, so the bags remained loaded.

That set the stage for Dijos' rap. His bounding hit slid its way through the left side of the infield, two runs scoring.

Centerville rallied briefly in the last of the ninth. Beecham drew a walk and stole yet another base. The fleet pitcher scored on an infield - grounder by Costa, who was safe at first when shortstop Bob Umland's throw was high.But Ford settled down to retire Mike Dixon and Glen Johnson on infield grounders and Dan Bontempo on a strikeout to end the game.

Braves top Newark, 2-1

NEWARK —Willie Langenhuizen struggled to stay alive in the first inning but only allowed one hit the rest of the way to lead the Filper Corporation Braves of Dublin to an exciting 2-1 win over the Newark American Twins in District 57 senior league playoff action at Memorial High School here yesterday.

It took some fancy footwork and clutch hitting in the eighth inning by the Braves to send them into tomorrow's finals at Olivos School in Mission San Jose.

With the score tied 1-1 second baseman Mike Caloiaro opened the bottom of the eighth with a single into left field. Shortstop Jeff Bynum then followed with another single. Both runners advanced on a passed ball, putting the winning run at third with no outs.

Rick Rosenbach, who pitched an outstanding game Saturday, then hit the ball between third base and Twin pitcher Brad Evangelo. Evangelo picked up the ball and threw to catcher Greg Miller off balance. However, Caloiaro slid under the tag and the Braves had the ball game.

Newark had opened the scoring in the first inning. Evangelo started with a single and went to second on Mike Perez's fielder's choice. Miller struck out but center fielder Ed Garva belted a hard grounder between second and first to score Evangelo.

Dublin's power hitters tied the score in the fourth.

Rosenbach started the inning with a booming double over the left fielder's head. Husky catcher Doug Daugherty followed with a single to center, scoring Rosenbach.

The Braves had a chance to win it all in the seventh but fell just short.

Mark Starsiak started the inning with a single and went to second on Langenhuizen's sacrifice grounder. After Tom Pearson struck out Pat Murphy walked. A passed ball sent Starsiak to third. Moments later with Caloiaro up Evangelo threw a wild pitch and Starsiak tried to score. However, Miller made a quick stop of the ball and threw to Evangelo who tagged Starsiak for the final out.

The Braves slugged seven hits to just three for Newark American. Langenhuizen fanned nine batters and didn't give up an extra base hit.

Brave manager Frank Caloiaro praised the Braves' defense.

"I think it was our best defensive performance of the season," he said. "It was our first extra - inning contest and we did really well considering that."

Caloiaro also singled out Langenhuizen.

"This was his best game ever. His first inning was a little ragged but after that he really settled down. His best pitch today was his curve. He has a slow curve that's really effective."

Walters keys Grizzly win

San Ramon guard Larry Walters, who continues to play with excellence, poured in 18 points, including eight of his club's first period 17 points, as the Grizzlies rolled to a 54-47 win over Danville last night in Allied Brokers Summer Cage action at Amador High School in Pleasanton.

In the 6 p.m. match, Hayward, which outscored Pleasant Hill 26-19 in the second half, defeated the Falcons 43-39.

Meanwhile, San Ramon, near the top of the standings in the Summer league, jumped to a quick 6-0 lead on buckets by Greg Madden, Craig Cline and Walters.

Danville, trailing by 16 midway through the second period, scored six straight points to come within 31-22 at the half. Walters had 14 points in the first 14 minutes.

It was more of the same in the second half. San Ramon started it off, outscoring Danville 8-0 for a 39-22 lead.

The Wolves, on the other hand, rallied for 39-28, before the quarter ended at an eight - point Cal advantage.

Danville, coming within seven points as the final score indicated, outscored the becoming Grizzlies, 14-10, and in one sequence, 7-0.

Phil Wiltz led the Danville scoring with 18 points, 13 of which came in the first half. Darren Johnson contributed 10 while Jeff Hank had nine.

Action continued in two late games last night, with Pleasanton taking on Dublin in a grudge match, while Martinez met Walnut Creek. Pleasanton headed into last night's games undefeated.

Bostrom eyes first big win

Paul Bostrom hopes to reach a long - awaited goal tomorrow night at the San Jose National Championship American Motorcycle Association races on the Santa Clara County Fairgrounds.

"I've never finished first in a national race," admitted the 14-year cycle veteran who races out of San Ramon. "The highest I ever finished was in 1972 when I came in second."

The drivers, all of the Expert Class, will be shooting for a prize fund in excess of $32,000.

There will be 53 drivers entered in the race. The race consists of 20 laps around the half-mile track.

Despite the large number of drivers entered Bostrom is optimistic about his chances for a victory.

"I think I have a pretty good chance," he stated. "Of course there will be a lot of good drivers entered. In fact just about every top driver in the nation will be there. Gary Scott and Ken Roberts should be the toughest contenders."

Scott and 19-year old Jay Springsteen of Flint, Michigan are currently tied for first place on the national circuit. Both have 95 points. Roberts, of Turlock, is third with 83 points.

There will be trials starting at 7 p.m. The top three drivers from each of the four heats advance to the main event. Four other drivers will be chosen to run in a semi-final meet race before the main event. The winner of the semi-final run also advances to the finals.

Bostrom rides a Harley - Davidson as do many of the other drivers entered.

Van Fossen fifth

A strong fifth-place showing in the featured 76-lap main event at the Stockton Speedway Saturday night lifted Livermore's Rich Van Fossen into third place in the NASCAR - Winston Racing Series Late Model Sportsman standings.

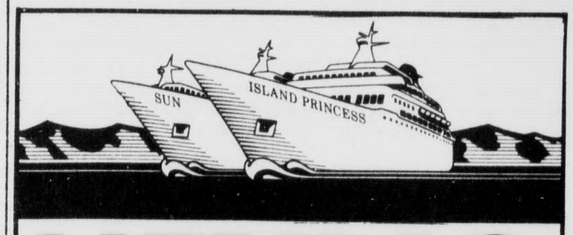

Van Fossen, who won his heat before losing out in the finals to Ted Fritz, trails red-hot rival Dan Reed of Riverbank, 604-423.

The heat win and a quick :16.3 qualifying time placed Van Fossen into the trophy dash, which he led for several laps before spinning out on a pool of oil.

Sunday, Van Fossen made his first trip to the Madera three-quarter mile track for yet another Bicentennial 76-lapper and finished 10th, gaining what he beleives is valuable experience.

The next action for Van Fossen and his 1964 Chevelle will come Saturday night at 7 p.m. at the Stockton half-mile oval.

The final cost of open space

While we would stop short of joining those who condemn acquisition of the 4200 - acre Rowell Ranch for futuristic park purposes, there is the nagging question of just how far the East Bay Regional Park District can go, and in what direction, before they break the bank.

The lament by nearby ranchers of "hippies and property destruction" are warnings that all taxpayers must heed; particularly since the EBRPD board of directors seems to ignore them. There is a problem here much larger than the nuisance facing any one rancher; there is a question much greater than the happy expansion of any one slice of "open space."

The park district's property acquisition over the last 15 years can be traced largely along three lines: Gifts, willing sellers and good fiscal circumstance. While those terms might indicate immediate "bargains" for the public's dollar, they give no assurance that our program of parks and open space is guided by any kind of master plan, or any recognition of the East Bay's tender ecology.

Two immediate examples of this are the Cull Canyon and Temescal lakes. Both of these parks are popular with nearby urban populations; both are in great danger of being lost forever because nature never intended those ponds to handle that kind of useage.

Sunol Regional Park has had similar problems. The theory behind "preserving the wilderness for public use" sounds great, on paper. But the pattern of vandalism, of motorcycle gangs who would take over that park at the expense of frightened families, is hardly consistent with the average person's view of "preserving a nice stretch of open space."

The ranchers have complaints of their own — fences broken down, cattle shot, ranching that has prevailed a hundred years or more now made virtually impossible.

The public need for parks, recreation and even open space is very real. The East Bay Regional Parks District would appear to be the logical agent for that program. But that also suggests the park district has a responsibility to get a firm view of the total environment, and the total economy, as they move with such happy abandon from section to section, gathering land and problems and unhappy neighbors as they go.

That is not the way to "serve the public and the taxpayers." That is not our long - term guarantee of "open space for the enjoyment of future generations."

FOCUS/Fair days

Bad decisions

The Pleasanton Day barbecue and the Dublin Day luncheon should not have been cancelled.

Wiping out of these two traditional events at the County Fairgrounds in effect tell the community "we can't do anything without horse racing or WITH strikes in progress."

It is our understanding the Dublin event, scheduled for Dublin Day today at the Fair, was scratched early on, the decision being almost totally dependent upon the status of racing.

Spokesmen for both events, president Tim Baldwin of the Dublin chamber and secretary-manager Chan Henderson of the Pleasanton chamber, stated in their respective announcements that advance sales weighed heavily in their decisions.

If the advance looks like you're not going to break even or lose your shirt....CANCEL.

A history of community spirit and camraderie may not make for a great advance, but don't we still make allowances for it?

Especially in Pleasanton.

This writer, frankly, is disgusted with the attitudes these decisions reflect.

Yes, gentlemen, I know it is not my money we're basically talking about.

But who ever said these barbecues and luncheons were meant to be money-making or even break-even affairs.

Merle Telford, president of the Pleasanton chamber, and one of those upset by the outcome of the vote, admitted the event is expected to fall short of breaking even.

But, it's this wringing of the hands and seeming resignation of defeat at the hands of some nebulous force that burns this person.

I seriously doubt if the majority of people coming to the two events (Pleasanton barbecue and Dublin luncheon) are just stopping off on their way to or from the track.

"Hurry up with the highball and steak, I've got to recoup my losses in the next race!"

Baloney.

Would you believe there are still a goodly number of people in this valley who don't need the carrot - on - the - end - of - the - stick approach (i.e., horse races or shows) to be lured to a barbecue or luncheon?

And a lot of them don't buy tickets a day or two in advance. They just show up at the appointed time and place. Makes it hell on advance planning and that rot.

But as chamber organizers should have discovered by past experiences, most everybody winds up having a good time.

Sure, the bartenders were a little surly one year and the main entree was pretty bad another year.

All told, the action is somewhere above the level of a "greasy spoon" and somewhat short of The Ritz.

So what's new!

All told, it's a hell of a way to try and prop up a local Fair that nine times out of 10 does us all some good.

And we haven't really touched on the community spirit and camraderie aspects of it all.

round the town

"I see where Suzanne Pleshette has come out four square in favor of marriage," I advise the lady on the far side of the morning breakfast table.

I am allowed to read newspapers at the morning table. Not so at dinner, where lively discourse on random affairs is supposed to permeate the place. It doesn't always work out. We get inspired to much livelier talk topics from the Morning Chron than we do with the evening's tiresome Trib.

"She even suggests there is fun and profit in a successful marriage," I announce, having failed to get much response to my first disclosure.

"What on earth are you talking about?" she asks, sweetly. Mornings are not the best part of her day.

"Suzanne Pleshette, that's who," I reply. "It's all here in the morning paper. I think it's nice to read about somebody who has a happy marriage for a change, don't you?"

"Are you suggesting we don't have a happy marriage?" says she. "Are you still pouting from that little discussion we had last night at dinner? I told you I really didn't expect a birthday present this year. The trip to England was enough."

Ah yes. A lively exchange. Not an argument, mind you. Just a little pas de deux on the subject of money, travel, the price of beef, the high cost of a hairdo. That sort of thing.

"I was NOT suggesting that our marriage is anything but perfect," I advised her. "And I had long since forgotten all about our little discussion of last evening." Liar.

"All I wanted to point out," I pressed on, "is that here is a famous star, and a mighty pretty gal to boot, who says ... 'I think we have a terrific marriage. Our feelings about each other are mature, and we appreciate each other as human beings.' Now isn't that beautiful?"

"The fact that she's mighty pretty or the quote on her marriage?" she asks.

"Her marriage, of course. I think the fact that Suzanne would speak for publication about her feelings for Mr. Hartley is commendable, and certainly unusual. We need more famous people to share their private lives with us, especially when things are going half - way right."

There follows a lively exchange on what "things going half - way right" means. She brings up the skipped birthday present versus the big trip again. I plead no contest. She persists.

"I don't see why you have to take it so personally when I read from the morning paper about somebody else's perfectly marvelous marriage," I state.

"I don't understand why you just happen to come across these items about happy marriages within 24 hours of any difference of opinion you and I might have had," she says.

"I wasn't aware we were having a difference of opinion," says I. "I had thought we both agreed to skip birthday gifting for each other this year because of the terrible expense of that overseas jaunt, and that was that."

"I didn't think it was all that expensive," she says. "I've talked to some girls in town who went to Europe and spent twice what we did, and that's not including the clothes they bought. I hardly bought a thing, which you well know."

"I urged you to buy more. I refuse to compare our expenses with any of the girls in town. And I sure as blazes am not going to get into another big argument about the cost of that trip," I assert. "We had a great time, blew our wad, and that's that. I am a happy man, even if somewhat broke." I could have skipped that last bit, but I just never learn.

"Some men are broke and they never get to go anywhere," she says. "You might be interested to learn what some wives spend on clothes, their home, furniture, that sort of thing."

"No, I would not be interested," I insist. "This conversation is getting positively ridiculous I don't know how we always wind up talking about money, particularly at breakfast."

"You started it with your love affair with Suzanne Pleshette," she reminds me, grabbing my half of the morning Chron. "Are you aware that Ms. Pleshette was talking about her TV husband when she was raving on about this guy 'Bob Hartley'? And the reason she's so happy with their arrangement is that their TV series on CBS - TV is making a bundle. You should have read past the first paragraph."

"You never gave me a chance," I said, testily "And as a matter of fact I knew all the time that Suzanne Pleshette is not Mrs. Bob Hartley in real life. But I still think it was a nice thing for her to say about marriage, even if the marriage wasn't for real."

And then, looking for any port in our early - morning storm, I added, nonchalantly — "Did you notice this piece where Charlie Finley says he needs to sell more A's in order to pay his alimony?"

"Did you catch this Magnin ad on new fall coats?" she replies. A standoff. No decision. Tune in tonight for the playoffs, when we have our official talks.

Zone 7's future

Now that Zone 7 has completed its political machinations, might the Valley's taxpaying populace assume that this important agency will really get down to work?

The problem in the past has been that no one understood what a "Water Conservation and Flood Control District" is supposed to do. It has all been fire - and - fall - back with everybody left dangling just when we thought one Valley agency was prepared to take over "management of this basin's water resources."

Admittedly, Zone 7 has some big engineering questions to answer relative to capacity, distribution and that sort of thing. But more urgently, the Zone 7 directors must get their political house in order. Anointed by neither God nor the devil (and they appear to waffle between the two) the Zone 7 guys are just another panel of public servants, no better and no worse than all the rest.

We see the election of George Lydiksen to that board's chairmanship (and the follow - up gesture to vice chairman Bob Pearson) as an expression of "let's get this show on the road."

Now all we need hope is that Zone 7 knows which road to take.

George Nicholson

The Times:
(Attention Al Fischer)

As you probably now know, I have been appointed Executive Director of the California District Attorneys Association, following nine years of very active service as an Alameda County prosecutor.

For a variety of reasons, not the least of which is my several years experience as a newspaper reporter and editor with my high school and two college newspapers, I recognize the need for media candor and accessibility by all governmental officials. As Executive Director of the C.D.A.A., I pledge to maintain the same opinions and frankness with which I have dealth with the media throughout my career as a prosecutor.

Having grown up here, I am going to miss the people of the Bay Area, especially those in the media. Though this appointment requires that I move to Sacramento, I expect to maintain close local ties.

If I may ever be of service, please let me know.

George Nicholson

Longspur gripe

Editor, The Times:

... regarding the Longspur Way residents and the Beratlis shopping center at Hopyard and Valley.

First let me compliment Ron McNicoll for his July 4th editorial. He zeroed in on the crux of the matter which is: Beratlis wants to build a bigger shopping center than is feasible on the 3.4 acres zoned commercial. Consequently, he sought and was given approval by the Planning Commission to use the one acre buffer zone for parking which is zoned for public and institutional use. This had the effect of rezoning the entire 4.4 acres to commercial which defeated the purpose of the public and institutional zoning as a buffer in the first place.

I have some specific comments regarding the ... City Council meeting on June 28:

1. William Herlihy displayed clear thinking which indicated he grasped the main thrust of the Longspur residents request.

2. Joyce LeClair indicated that she and perhaps other council members were unaware that the current zoning ordinance allows a parking lot as one of the woes of public and institutionally zoned property.

3. Ken Mercer's 29-foot buffer proposal was well intentioned. However, it is a form of appeasement which evades the main issue so well stated in McNicoll's editorial.

In this same vein when Mercer's compromise was offered, I asked for time to caucus the Longspur residents ... This proposal was refused by Mayor Philcox. I'm sure if it had been allowed, the matter would have proceeded much faster.

3. Since Mayor Philcox is such a stickler for procedure that he would not allow Longspur residents to caucus, I ask: Why did he not disqualify himself from this issue. His was the only negative vote on the Longspur residents petition. I wonder if this has anything to do with the fact that Philcox is an officer of the bank located adjacent to the proposed Beratlis shopping center. The bank would not suffer by the approval of an "oversize" adjacent shopping center.

Trim bureaucracy

by Rep. Fortney H. Stark, Jr.
Congressman, Ninth District

In an attempt to cut fat from the obese Washington bureaucracy, a number of us have co - authored legislation that would require government programs to be justified or be abolished.

If they couldn't be justified as being in the best interests of consumers, business persons or whomever they are intended to serve, they would be abolished automatically.

The 1975 Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance lists 1,030 programs — 228 related to health, 156 concerned with income security and social service, and 83 in housing. The Government Manual lists 44 independent agencies and 1,240 advisory boards, committees, commissions and councils. Eighty - five governmental bodies were established in 1974, and only three were laid to rest.

Under our legislation, called "sunset" bills, bureaucrats would come before House and Senate committees annually to seek authorization of their functions. If committee members could not be convinced, the programs would "fade into the sunset."

I hesitate to guess how many commissions, boards etc. have outgrown their usefulness, or have overlapping responsibilities, but I believe there are scores. I glanced through the Congressional Directory and came across several listings that made me wonder. What, for example, does the Inter - American Tropical Tuna Commission do? Or the International Pacific Halibut Commission? How about the Joint Brazil United States Defense Commission? The Commission on Federal Paperwork?

The "sunset" legislation will require periodic review of these and other commissions, boards, agencies etc., even those that have long been taken for granted.

Another objective, besides saving money, is to make government bureaucrats more responsive to citizens and to Congress. Periodic evaluations, a concept applied in business, tends to keep one on one's toes.

Unfair

The Number Three School basement was a scary place.

The gloom and cold swallowed up the puddles of yellow light thrown off by a few old light bulbs. Cracks on the gray cement floors looked like maps of rivers with all their branches. Spiders lurked in black corners nobody would go near.

Girls only ventured into the Number Three School basement for one thing — to go to the bathroom, when you really couldn't stand waiting til you got home.

We never even stopped to look into the tarnished mirror, or snatch a mouthful of warm water from the gum - crusted fountain.

We would head straight for one of the little green booths, lock the door and sit there listening to unearthly screeches coming from the other side of the basement.

That was (we hoped) the saw in the boys' shop.

No girl ever did see the inside of that shop. It was walled off from the surrounding gloom. As we raced for the stairs after paying our visit to the powder room, we could smell the sawdust and hear the hammers and saws.

Later, the boys would come upstairs bearing nifty little wooden lamps with pump - handle chain pullers and built - in ashtrays.

Meanwhile, the lumpy, lopsided blouses we girls had produced in sewing class got stuffed a little back in our desk drawers.

In seventh and eighth grade, the girls spent fall and winter in Cooking class while the boys had Shop.

While the snow was on the ground outside, we steamed up the windows and made the kitchen fragrant with cinnamon toast and potato pancakes. We had to wear hairnets and little white caps and white aprons with bibs that had a potholder dangling from one side of the belt and a dishtowel from the other.

Mostly, we learned how to scrub the sinks and wash the dishes and set the table.

In the spring and summer, we had Sewing and the boys had Shop again.

The snow went away and the air became heavy with humidity in the sewing room — which was the cooking room with the pots put away and some sewing machines rolled in for the occasion.

We toiled over making pleated gingham - checked skirts without a pattern. In eighth grade we advanced to sleeveless blouses with lumpy collars, and the fast workers even made Bermuda shorts.

That was some handy training we got back in 1958 at Number Three School. Eighteen years later, I'm really good at putting patches on my jeans and sewing buttons back on jackets.

I can also make cinnamon toast for company.

But, last winter when I decided to shingle the bathroom wall, I hung all the shingles upside down with the wrong kind of nails.

The only saw I had to work with was the one I had stolen from my 8 - year - old's toy tool kit and had already blunted by trying to shorten a bookshelf, and sawing up a cinderblock by mistake.

Meanwhile, a divorced guy I knew was spending $200 a month eating at cheap restaurants because he was incompetent in the kitchen. He thought he was liberated because he could cook a few gourmet dishes like zucchini casserole. But he could not sustain himself on a day - to - day basis.

Nor was he any good at putting patches on his jeans.

We could have done a trade - off: I'll fix your jeans if you shingle my bathroom.

But he had just redone his apartment and couldn't bear to look at a hammer. And my fingertips were already shredded from pushing a needle through six thicknesses of fabric.

Maybe that is why sex discrimination in the schools is such a waste.

We spend the rest of our lives trying to climb out of the little boxes they put us in at age 12.

Typing for the girls, mechanical drawing for the boys. Then a guy decides to become a writer, and at age 23 he has to take typing in night school.

Auto shop for the boys, art for the girls. So the woman, 10 years later, can pay $60 for somebody else to change the points and plugs.

The big sports budget for the boys; give the girls enough money to buy their pom - pons and then wonder why they lose their shape so young after they get married, have a baby and forget how to move.

Sex discrimination means a lot of waste. It's an insulting waste of and especially, valuable time when you're growing up and grasping for the tools of a happy and productive life, and some of them are hidden from you.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The poet who may or may not have said, " 'Tis better to have finessed and lost, than never to have finessed at all" could not have been much of a bridge player.

One time when you should refuse to finesse is when you know that the finesse can't win. In such cases you can always hope that the missing honor will drop.

South's jump to three notrump was a trifle ambitious. He really wanted to win and felt the way to win was to get to game and hope for the best.

West opened the ace of hearts and continued to his partner's king. East led a third heart and cleared the suit.

Things didn't look at all good for South. The defense had two tricks in with two more hearts set up as winners. Of course, there was a diamond finesse available but South knew it just wasn't going to work. East needed the king of diamonds for his bid and furthermore West wuld have responded with an ace and a king.

So South played dummy's ace of diamonds and was well rewarded when the singleton king dropped.

Ask the Jacobys

A New York reader wants to know the difference between a reneg and a revoke.

There is none. Reneg, or renege, is an obsolete term that means exactly the same as revoke.

Dublin Presbyterian

DUBLIN— "An Exciting Church is Special K," is the summer sermon theme for this Sunday at John Knox United Presbyterian Church, 7421 Amarillo Rd. The family service of worship is at 9:30 a.m. with a pre-school class for ages 3-5 at the same time. Older children are invited to attend worship with their parents.

Michael Clay, a talented mime, will pantomine "The Butterfly Catcher" this Sunday as a message about freedom for the children during the worship service.

The Rev. Jim Griffes also announces that his sermon on Special K will begin a summer series of meditaions on what makes for an exciting church, victorious living, a growing faith, dynamic marriage in Christian fellowship.

There will be a public reception and welcome of new members at the 9:30 a.m. worship A special offering for the Rexburg, Idaho Presbyterian Church will also be received to assist the flood victims of that town almost devastated by the break of the Teton Dam last month. 90 per cent of Rexburg's inhabitants were left homeless, and the Presbyterian Church is the only protestant congregation in that area that is left to minister to the needs of the people there.

An evening service is also planned at 7 to be held at the Griffes home at 7281 Prince Dr. The informal worship is in the style of the early Christian Church and gifts of the Spirit may be shared in prayer and song and scripture. All are welcome. Bread and wine are provided, for the agape worship, by the hosts.

St. Philip

DUBLIN— St. Philip Lutheran Church, corner of Davona and Alcosta, will be remembered by special prayers of thanksgiving this Sunday as they celebrate their 13th anniversary.

Pastor Sergei Koberg will base his sermon, "In The Same Boat," on Mark 4:35-41 for the services scheduled for 8:30 a.m. and 11. Bible classes for all ages are held at 9:45 a.m. Nursery for small children is available at both services.

Summer patio discussions for adults and youth for growth and sharing will be held for five weeks on Wednesday nights at 8. The July 14 topic is "What's So Bad About the Historical - Critical Method?" Proper methods of interpreting the Bible are one of the major concerns of the church today. We will look at Jesus' cleansing of the temple in terms of the Historical - Critical method and try to evaluate the results. Call the church office, 828-2117, for the place of the meeting.

Pleasanton Presbyterian

PLEASANTON— Because of numerous delays, the congregation of the United Presbyterian Community Church will continue to worship in the Sanctuary at Neal and First Streets until further notice.

The Sunday services will commence at 10 a.m. throughout the summer months.

The Rev. Robert Vogt's sermon for this Sunday is entitled: "You Believe in Jesus — Jesus Believes in You."

All interested members are invited to a special congregational meeting to be held in the Social Hall on Thursday, July 22, at 7:30 p.m.

Lynnewood Methodist

PLEASANTON— Travis L. Campbell, the new minister for Lynnewood United Methodist Church, 4444 Black Ave., will deliver his first sermon to his new congregation this Sunday at the 10 a.m. worship service.

The Rev. Campbell comes from Park Presidio, San Francisco, and is replacing the Rev. J. Howard Acton who recently transfered to Gilroy.

Valley Community

PLEASANTON— Pastor Leron Heath of Valley Community Church will conclude a four-part series on the prophecies of Isaiah with a message entitled: "A Strange Messiah."

Valley Community Church meets in the multi-purpose room at Amador High School. Worship services begin at 10 a.m. followed by Sunday school training at 11.

New Methodist Pastor

Valley United Methodist Church, which meets in the Camp Parks Chapel, is proud to announce the appointment of their new Pastor, the Rev. Eva Dickover. The mother of two teen-aged children, Mike and Ruth, comes to her new church assignment from San Jose, and is still a seminary student at the Theological Institute at U.C. Berkeley. For her first sermon at services Sunday, 8:45 a.m., Pastor Dickover will address her congregation on "The Transformed Community." Members will be able to meet and welcome their new minister at a coffee fellowship following the services.

Mr. Magic Comes to Livermore

LIVERMORE— "Mr. Magic" in the person of Richard Boylan is coming to the Berean Baptist Church, 2200 Bess Ave., July 12-16 from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon, to present his unique form of Vacation ible School.

All children five years of age and older are invited to enjoy, free of charge, the varied schedule of Bible and missionary stories, scripture memorization, singing and other interesting activities geared for all ages.

Challenging and thrilling stories with the use of gospel puppets will be given every day. Mr. Boylan's form of "Gospel Magic" is always a thrill to everyone, even the older folks. Seeing things associated with the Bible disappear and reappear again make the learning of the Gospel stories an exciting adventure.

Refreshments every day are promised to those in attendance and awards will be given to all who earn them. Everyone will be qualified to enter the "contests" and a good time is guaranteed.

The children planning to attend the Bible School are asked to dress conservatively as the meeting will be held in the church. For more information, please call 443-8629 or 455-5330.

Evangelical

PLEASANTON— Pastor Merle Aaker of the Evangelical Free Church, meeting in the Valley View School on Adams Way, will bring a message from Psalm 27 ("Have Faith or Faint") at the 11 a.m. worship service this Sunday. This service is preceded by Sunday school at 9:30.

Youth groups of all ages meet at 5:45 p.m. At the evening fellowship hour at 7 guest speaker will be Greg Howell, son of Mrs. George Swanson of Raven Road, Pleasanton, now a student at Grace Seminary, Winona Lake, Indiana.

Evangelical Free Church holds its mid-week services at Pleasanton Gardens in their Community Room on Kottinger Ave.

Berean Baptist

LIVERMORE— "The Four Methods of Motivation" (Lev. 26:3-20) will be Pastor Bill Ferry's sermon theme at the 11 a.m. service at Berean Baptist Church, 2200 Bess Ave.

Sunday school, with classes for all ages, are held at 9:45. The adult class is now studying the Book of Daniel.

The Sunday evening service at 6 will consider the message, "Rich Men and Poor Motives" (James 2:1-5). Nursery care is provided for all services.

Wednesday prayer meeting and bible study is at 7:30 p.m.

Trinity

PLEASANTON— Services at Trinity Lutheran Church, Hopyard and Del Valle, are held each Sunday at 8 and 9:30 a.m. This Sunday's 9:30 service will be in contemporary form.

The Church Council plans to meet at 10:45 a.m.

Seminary Prof. guest of Parkway

DUBLIN— Dr. Robert L. Cate, Associate Professor at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary, will be presenting God's message at both services at Parkway Baptist Church, 7485 Village Parkway, this Sunday.

Dr. Cate, who teaches Old Testament Interpretation, is the author of a commentary on the biblical book Leviticus, and numerous articles for Christian news magazines. In 1975 he participated in a meeting with the Royal Commission on Human Needs in London, England.

Regular morning services at Parkway begin at 11 a.m. Bible study classes for all age groups convene at 9:30 a.m., with nursery care for all pre-school children. The Christian Life Training Period is at 6 p.m., with the series on "How to Understand Your Bible" continuing. Evening worship service is at 7 p.m.

Each Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m., Parkway bustles with Christian activity. For the adults a special Bible training and prayer service. In adjacent Evans Hall, pre-school through high school age activity programs are conducted for the youngsters.

For more information on the many activities at Parkway, call the church office at 828-0359.

DR. ROBERT L. CATE

Valley Christian

DUBLIN— On Sunday, Pastor Pat Clements of Valley Christian Center, will be speaking on "What is Your Response to God's Plan for Your Life?" at the 8:15 a.m. service. At the 9:30 and 10:50 a.m. services Pastor Ward Tanneberg will speak on "Mt. Ebal and Mt. Gerizim."

The 8:15 service will be held at 7400 San Ramon Rd. The 9:30 and 10:50 services are held at the Little Theatre, Dublin High School.

A Fish Factory for Youth is held at 4 p.m. at 7400 San Ramon Rd. The 6 p.m. service, at the same location, will include lively singing and sharing. Pastor Tenneberg will begin a new series — "Growing Through Colossians."

A variety of bible classes for all ages are held each Sunday. For details please call the Center's office at 828-4549. The public is cordially invited to attend.

People's Church

LIVERMORE— "God's Refining Process" is the title of Pastor Steve Riggle's message to the congregation of People's Church, 1135 Bluebell Dr., this Sunday morning at the 10:45 worship service, which immediately follows the adult school of the bible and the children's Sunday school. Both of these services start at 9:30.

Evening activities begin with a communion and prayer service at 5:30 p.m. followed by the Celebration of Praise service at 6. Guest speaker at the evening service will be Paul Adams, missionary.

Guest speaker at the evening service will be Paul Adams, missionary to the Philippines. The schedule for mid-week sessions of the School of the Bible is available by calling 455-4250 or 447-2043. Nursery care is provided all day Sunday,'and during all sessions for the school of the Bible.

People's Church is an interdenominational church, actively involved in the movement of renewal in the Holy Spirit.

St. Clare

PLEASANTON— Holy Communion from the Book of Common Prayer will be held at 8 o'clock with Holy Eugharist from the Trial Liturgy at the 10 a.m. family service.

The Rev. William A. Smith will preach the sermon. Nursery care is provided at the later service, and a coffee hour will follow.

Retreat

A retreat for married couples will be held at San Damiano Retreat House, Danville, on July 23 25. For more information and reservations please call 797-7611 or 797-0864.

Holy Cross

LIVERMORE— "The Man in Christ" is the theme of a three-week series of messages at the 9 o'clock Sunday morning services at Holy Cross Lutheran Church, Livermore. This Sunday's message will be "A New Way of Seeing."

Fair reports blue ribbons in agriculture

The Livermore High School Horticulture Club and Livermore - Pleasanton Farm Center were among blue ribbons winners in the agriculture department of the Alameda County Fair, continuing through Sunday at the Fairgrounds in Pleasanton.

The two clubs won first in their respective classes, the Farm Center also receiving a third in best exhibit, third in best use of equipment, and third in special effects.

The Livermore Future Farmers of America placed first among the FFA booths, second in best exhibit, second in best adherence to theme, first in best use of equipment, and first in junior sweepstakes

Pleasanton FFA placed third in FFA booths.

Other valley and county-wide winners included Alameda County Beekeepers Association, first in the honey division and second for special effects; Alameda County Cowbelles, first place in their division and three special awards, first in best feature exhibit, first in best adherence to theme, and senior sweepstakes; Alameda County Farm Bureau, second in their division and second in best use of equipment; Alameda County Nurserymen, second in their division.

Also, Alameda County Wine Growers Assn., third in their class; Alameda County Woolgrowers, first in their class and first in best use of equipment; Barbara Silva, Pleasanton, first in one family farm division; Young Farmers and Ranchers of Alameda County, second in class; Fremont Future Farmers of America, second among FFA booths and third in best adherence to theme; Richard Sealana, second in one family farm.

Displays were judged by Aldo Dolfino, Napa, and Jack Simmen, Santa Cruz. Both judges are agriculture commissioners from their counties.

The rabbit and pigeon divisions of the poultry department were judged by Jim Sallee of Sonoma and John Phillips of Soquel.

Ribbons in the pigeon division were awarded to: Best roller, Russ Cunningham, old cock marked; Best Indian fantail, Ken C. Diehl of Concord, powdered silver shelf; Best flying homer, Porter Brothers of San Ramon, old cock blue check; Best homer (show pen), Bill and Joe Bronner of Pleasanton, old cock; Best king, Howard R. SMALL TRUCKS WITH BIG IDEAS.

TOYOTA-THON SALE!
All Toyota's on sale at the prices you've been looking for!
It's our biggest sales event of the year!
This weekend only!
Don't miss it!
At participating dealers.

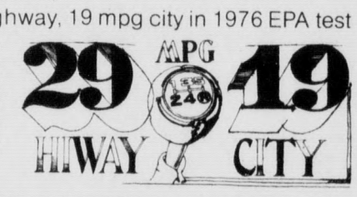

Toyota trucks are built with the same quality and craftsmanship that go into all Toyotas, including our super-rugged off road Toyota Land Cruiser. And that makes them among the most durable and dependable trucks on the road. Here are a few reasons why.

Big on power and performance. Toyota's mighty, yet economical 2.2 litre overhead cam engine is the biggest piston engine of all the mini-trucks. It'll take you from 0 to 55 in 11.8 seconds. And it comes with your choice of rugged 4-speed, 3-speed automatic or 5-speed overdrive transmissions.

Big on economy. 29 mpg highway, 19 mpg city in 1976 EPA test with 5-speed overdrive transmission. (These EPA results are estimates. The actual mileage you get will vary, depending on your driving habits and your truck's condition and equipment.)

Big on variety. First, our SR-5 Sport Trucks, for people who want the ultimate. 5-speed overdrive transmission, hi-back front bucket seats, wall-to-wall carpeting and racy body stripes all come standard. Available with either a roomy 6-foot bed or our extra long 7-foot bed, big enough to haul just about anything.
Or if you don't want the frills choose our Regular Long Bed, with optional 5-speed overdrive transmission. Or our Regular 4-speed for the absolute in economy.

A big commitment to quality. We believe we make the most rugged and dependable small trucks in the world. That's what gives us the confidence to say: If you can find a better built small truck than Toyota . . . buy it.
